In her own statement it appeared that her husband enlisted in the Pennsylvania [illegible] against her desire, and to be with him she procured a uniform and enlisted for three months, passed the inspection of the surgeon, and was accepted. After the expiration of that time she re-enlisted, and was in the battle of Bull Run. She acted generally in the capacity of clerk or secretary to the Colonel of the regiment, but her sex was not discovered. On Saturday, she started for her home, and while on the train her sex was discovered by a passenger, who exposed her. Her release by the police was with the understanding that she would report herself to Gen. Dix at Fort McHenry. She is a woman of considerable intellect, and some courage, as she desired a pass at arms with the party who discovered and exposed her.

More of the Knights of the Golden Circle

We have already stated that a number of the Knights of the Golden Circle were arrested in Ohio. Their rituals, mode of operations, grips, a large list of members and places of meeting were discovered. Several individuals had managed to be present at one of their meetings, who disclosed all the facts necessary to secure their arrest. It will be seen by the operations of the society in Ohio that the Knights do not confine their operations to the rebel States. Their field of operations is wide spread. Their aims are to paralyze all efforts to raise men in the free States to carry on the war against rebellion effectually—to resist the collection of the war tax, and in every way possible to embarrass, and, if possible break up the Government.

We present the oaths which are exacted from all the members of the lodges of the Golden Circle:

FIRST OATH

I do trust and solemnly promise and swear that I will not reveal any word, either directly or indirectly, of what I am about to receive, except it be to some true and faithful brother of the order, and not unto him or them until after strict examination, I shall have found him or them as justly entitled to the same, as I myself am about to be, under the no less penalty of having my body severed into four parts, the first part cast out at the north gate, the second part at the south, the third part at the east, and the fourth part at the west gate. I furthermore promise that I will always hail and answer all signs and signals that are given to me by a brother of this order if in my power to do so; and I further more promise and swear that I will protect and defend all Constitutional Democrats, their lives, property, and personal liberty from mob violence, during this Southern insurrection, so long as they obey the laws of the U. S. A., let it come from whatever source it may. This obligation to be binding on me as long as the war shall last."

SECOND OATH

"And I further promise and swear in the presence of Almighty God and the members of the Golden Circle, that I will not rest or sleep until Abraham Lincoln, now President, shall be removed out of the Presidential Chair, and I will wade in blood up to my knees as soon as Jefferson Davis sees proper to march with his army to take the city of Washington and the white house to do the same. So help me God and keep me steadfast to do the same."

Samuel Cheney, a citizen of Ohio, on whose affidavit the arrests were made, swore, in proper form, that the above were the oaths administered to all the Knights.

Four other citizens also made oath to the same effect, as follows:

"The undersigned under oath state that we have read the above statement, and say that we were present and heard the oaths administered as stated in the above affidavit, and that the statements therein are true.

F. H. DICKERSON,
J. W. HOOD,
DANIEL SNYDER,
C. MARTIN.

Sworn and subscribed before me this 7th day of October, A. D. 1861.

J. R. GARRISON,
Mayor of the incorporated village of M[illegible], Ohio."

We have strong means to believe that the Knights of the Golden Circle are leaders in, and the master spirits of the secession party in Oregon.

WHO ARE ENTITLED TO PENSIONS.—The following persons are entitled to pensions:—The officers and soldiers of the army, whether Regular, Volunteer and Militia; officers and seamen of the navy. If any of the parties named have been disabled from sickness contracted, or from wounds received in the line of their duty, whilst in the service of the United States, they are entitled to pensions during the continuance of such disability. The widows of all officers, soldiers and seamen, who have been killed, or who have died from wounds received or sickness contracted whilst in the service of the United States, are entitled to pensions for life or during their widowhood. If there be no widow, the children under sixteen years of age are entitled.

The Last Words of Senator Douglas

"Though dead, the Senator yet speaketh." He told the Virginia chivalry that if Mr. Lincoln was constitutionally elected President, and they should attempt to secede, his whole power and influence would be used to sustain the Government. They attempted to secede, and Mr. Douglas was true to himself and his country. He demanded that party strife should cease till our rights and existence should be secure and our Union out of danger. These were among the last words of the departed Statesman:

"Whoever is not prepared to sacrifice party organizations and platforms on the altar of his country does not deserve the support and countenance of honest people. How are we to overcome partisan antipathies in the minds of men of all parties so as to present a united front in support of our country? We must cease discussing party issues, make no allusions to old party tests, have no criminations and recriminations, indulge in no taunts one against the other, as to who has been the cause of these troubles.

When we shall have rescued the Government and country from its perils, and seen the Flag floating in triumph over every inch of American soil, it will then be time enough to enquire as to who and what brought these troubles upon us. When we shall have a country and a Government for our children to live in in peace and happiness, it will be time for each of us to return to our party banners according to our own convictions of right and duty. LET HIM BE MARKED AS NO TRUE PATRIOT WHO WILL NOT ABANDON ALL SUCH ISSUES IN TIMES LIKE THESE."

Anti-Coolie Association of San Francisco

We have received a lengthy circular from the institution above named—setting forth the evils which have resulted to white labor in California from the introduction of Chinese coolies—the clannish character of that people—the filthy manner in which they live—that all their earnings are sent to China; that they are mostly slaves, that they are destitute of every principle of character or decency; that amalgamation with these effeminate and vicious people would be injurious to our race; and that the policy of this Government is against immigration to this country of such as can never be our equals as citizens; and that for these and many other reasons, measures should be adopted to put a stop to their further immigration. The measures recommended are:

"The passage of an act providing for a gradually increasing license tax upon all Mongolians in this State engaged in mining, mechanical or other industrial pursuits, holding the employer as well as the Mongolian responsible for its payment, and making the process of collection summary, as in the case of poll tax and miner's license.

We propose that this tax shall at first be quite insignificant, but increasing gradually until it shall amount to a prohibition of Chinese labor in California, or, at least, to a rate that will render white labor, in every branch of industrial business, more profitable than that of Asiatics. By this means, it is believed, that the immigration of Chinese can be effectually discouraged, and that those already here will be induced to leave our shores. This plan, may possibly ultimately involve the necessity of the State making provision for enabling the few that may remain here to earn, under suitable regulations and restrictions, a sum sufficient to pay their passage to China. And it is also possible that a few of the infirm may have to be transported at the expense of the Government. But at any cost, it is good policy to speedily relieve our State of the curse of its Chinese population.

A statute of this kind would not interfere with the right of the Chinese to conduct mercantile business, and hence they would here enjoy all the real privileges which, under treaties, we enjoy in China. The rigid enforcement of existing laws, with slight modifications, will enable us to banish from our midst the loathsome Chinese brothels which are a disgrace to our State."

California is suffering from the introduction of Chinese coolies. The Anti-Coolie Association has for its object the putting a stop to such immigration. It may succeed by the adoption of the measure proposed. They are worth trying. We have but few Chinese among us—some of whom are apparently respectable—and others belong to the lowest grade of humanity.

PEACE PARTY.—Breckinridge has finally gone over to the rebels. The last Eastern news intimates that he is on the way to Europe as an emissary of Jeff. Davis. Burnett of Kentucky has followed the same track, and Senator Green of Missouri. [illegible] May of Maryland narrowly escaped [illegible] at [illegible]. Bright managed to keep in the Senate, while he writes introductory letters to Jeff. Davis for inventors of improved firearms, and makes speeches in favor of the admission of Stark to a seat there. The people of Vallandigham's district have decided against him by a majority of four thousand, but he will keep in the House and work for the rebels as long as he can. Metcalfe and Sykes, Jordan and Lane, peace men of Oregon, have naturally found their way into the rebel army, and we expect in the Spring that more of our peace men will take the same direction.

A SECESH LETTER.—The following unique specimen of secession literature was discovered at Fort Hatteras and sent home by one of the officers of the fleet. We print it literatim except the signature:

August 5th 1861

dear cousin I have taken my pen in hand to rite a few lines to let you no that i received your kind letter and was glad [illegible] the 27 and I was [illegible] to here from you but I was sorry to here that your mother was sik I am Wel at present and in as good health as I ever was I [illegible] Sickness Sens I have bin [illegible] when I first came here I did not hav nothing new to rite you [illegible] the place very Well and I Should like it [illegible] they want [illegible] here for they is the [illegible] that I ever [illegible] they is [illegible] here that you cant [illegible] the [illegible] that you went [illegible] a Southern [illegible] girls [illegible] I Should like to no [illegible] Some [illegible] them we have [illegible] the purtiest musterin here that I [illegible] I put on my [illegible] I like [illegible] to see the [illegible] I want you [illegible] to rite [illegible] the chanse to [illegible] a scattering of Sand hills [illegible] all the rest of your [illegible] friends [illegible] to us [illegible]

RECONNOISSANCE IN WARSAW SOUND.—Letters at the Navy Department, Washington, state that on the 5th December Com. Rogers left Tybee Roads before daylight with the steamers Ottawa, Seneca and Pembina, and crossed the bar of Warsaw Sound at half tide. The United States forces approached the fort on Warsaw Island [illegible] and sent Lieut. Barnes to it with a flag of truce, which found it entirely deserted. The fort consisted of an enclosed octagonal work, with platforms for eight guns on the water faces. The guns had been removed, the platforms cut up and a magazine blown up. Commander Rogers states that everything had the appearance of being very recently deserted.

Com. Rogers went within ten miles of Savannah. It had been ascertained that the city was entirely unprovided with defences on that side, and could easily be taken possession of by our troops whenever it should be deemed proper to make the attempt. The rebels had abandoned all their fortifications on the coast, and were erecting another line of defences more inland. All the whites who were able to leave had fled to the interior. Deserters and contrabands were continually bringing information to the federal forces—the steward of the rebel steamer Pulaski was among the deserters.

NIGHT WORSHIP AT FORT WELLS—(PORT ROYAL).—After the labors of the day were over and supper ended, the negroes in a dilapidated out house held a prayer meeting. I listened, outside, last night and heard ardent ejaculations of thanksgiving for the favorable change God had given to "my colored brudden." The jargon was absurd, but it was earnest; the singing was out of tune and time, but it was fervent. In some quarters the blacks are less religious, and held a ball to celebrate the coming of the Yankees. I have talked with nearly half of those I have seen. Have asked them which they preferred, the new or the old order of things, and though some few here and there speak kindly of their old masters, there was no mistaking the genuineness of their gratitude for the change.

MARYLANDERS RETURNING.—A late letter from Washington says—Two wealthy gentlemen, residents of Lower Maryland, who fled to Virginia a few months since for fear of being arrested because they were secession sympathizers, have returned to the Maryland side. They have spent most of the time in Fredericksburg. Neither of them had joined the rebel army. They confirm the information recently received from that vicinity relative to the high price of coffee and other common articles of food, and the strong desire of Maryland rebels now in Virginia to lay down their arms, return to their homes, and like themselves take the oath of allegiance to the United States. [illegible] government will not let those [illegible] Maryland [illegible] leave the rebel army. There are [illegible] hundred and twenty young men from Charles county, Md., in the rebel army.

A SOLDIER BOY IN A BAD FIX.—One of Mulligan's soldiers at Lexington captured the affections of a handsome mulatto girl of about seventeen, whose bright eyes and [illegible] complexion quite upset his equanimity. Having done the gallant and valorous both [illegible] with the rest and came home [illegible] his little [illegible] mutton [illegible] herself away and [illegible] the [illegible] and its subsequent [illegible] left her [illegible] work and ran away [illegible] She arrived in Chicago a few days [illegible] to his great astonishment [illegible] She has had her arms around his neck the greater part of the time since, and manifests no disposition to let go. The gay soldier is in a quandary. He cannot realize on her by any auction sale, and he is not at all disposed to marry, so the matter stands in statu quo. He has, it is said, become a strong advocate of a rigid enforcement of the fugitive slave law.—Chicago Times.

CITY.

The MORNING OREGONIAN has a larger SUBSCRIPTION LIST than any other Daily published in this City.

MEAN.—We are informed that some one cut the halyards of the city flag-staff, one night this week. The top-mast will have to be lowered in order to reef them again. A rope's end would be too good for one so evil-disposed.

SINNED AGAIN.—A benevolent gentleman paid Charley McKay's fine, in the Recorder's Court the other day, which saved him the disgrace of going to jail. "The old man" fell into his old habits again, yesterday morning, and rioted around considerably. Marshal Grooms was compelled to put him in jail. Poor Charley! We think it would be a good plan for those who sell whisky not to give him any more.

NEW "FREEZE OUT" GAME.—Mr. K., the proprietor of one of our fashionable saloons, has invented a new game of "freeze out," here lately. During the late cold spell, he was troubled somewhat with quite a number of unprofitable customers, who were in the habit of occupying all the space around the stove. To rid the house of these interlopers, he opens all the doors and lets the fire die out—thereby making the room too cold for comfort. This makes the game, and they are soon "froze out."

CHOICE ORATORY.—Sundry members of the Common Council, while debating a question last night, indulged in language which no doubt was unknown in the days of Clay and Webster. Lovers of cheap fun would do well to drop in occasionally, at a meeting of the Council.

OUT-TOWN SOIREES.—The house of Mr. Giles, about three miles north of town, is a place of frequent resort by some of our young people—parties being held there two or three evenings of each week. The fine sleighing and pleasant moonlight nights, make it a splendid drive down there.

FOR VANCOUVER.—The steamer Vancouver is now able to reach the northern bank of the Columbia river, opposite the mouth of the Willamette. She leaves Commercial Wharf this morning for that place.

LOW WATER—The river at this point is now within a foot of the low-water mark of last Fall.

CAMP PHRASES.—An enterprsing publisher might make money by getting up a camp dictionary, for the benefit of those who visit the army, and are mystified by the extraordinary words and phrases used. The word "arms" has been distorted into "umn," brought forcibly forth like the last groan of a dying cat; and in place of "march" we hear "utch." A tent is jocularly termed "the canvass," a sword is a "toad-sticker," and any of the altered patterns of muskets are known as "howitzers." Mess beef is "salt horse," coffee is "boiled rye" vegetables are "cow feed," and butter "strong grease." "Bully" is the highest terms of commendation, while dissent is expressed in the remark, "I don't see it." Almost every regiment has its nickname, and few officers or privates receive their legal appellations or titles when spoken of in their absence. The Massachusetts men have even christened their governor, nor have his "military family" escaped their nom-de-guerre, one or two of which are decidedly uncomplimentary, though laugh-provoking.

YOUNG JEFF. DAVIS.—A lady friend of ours who was staying at the West Point Hotel, Summer before last, when Jeff. Davis and his family were visiting the same place, relates that one of the Davis children, a boy of only four years, bearing the ignominious name of Jeff. Davis, Jr., so outraged the decencies of hotel life by his profanity at the table, in the hall and in their grounds, that a general feeling of horror at the little wretch's beastly conduct was the universal sentiment expressed by all the boarders, except the father and mother of the wicked young fury. Meeting the lady, our informant, on the entry stairs one day, and recognizing her as a Northerner, among other delicate phrases the dirty little ruffian called her a "d—d black nigger," and threatened to throw a stone at her when he got a chance. Sweet counsel and guidance that youth must have received at the parental knee!—Boston Transcript.

PRICE'S PROPHECY.—While Col. Mulligan was held a prisoner of war by Gen. Price, in Missouri, they frequently conversed with great candor upon matters pertaining to the war. Among other things Price predicted that after next Christmas every battle in the Northwest would be fought north of the Ohio river. He desired that this prediction might be remembered by the Colonel, wherever he might be at the time of its fulfilment, and staked his reputation for sagacity upon the result.

Agency Notice.—Mr. L. P. FISHER is our only authorized Agent in San Francisco to receive advertisements, and transact business for the DAILY and WEEKLY OREGONIAN. Office—No. 171½ Washington street, nearly opposite Maguire's Opera House.

☞ The Medical and Surgical Institute of DR. L. J. CZAPKAY is already secured in a position which places it, as well as its proprietor, far above the assaults of envy and professional malice. In the schools of France, the highest prizes are often awarded to practitioners in this department of medical science, and they occupy, with others, an equally lofty position in the profession. Ricord is an illustrious example, a shining light among the philosophical stars of his age in Europe, and Dr. Czapkay has fully equalled him in this country; as a proof of which, the Philadelphia College of Medicine complimented him with a Diploma, and the honorary ad eundem degree. Selecting this as his field of operation, although qualified as a graduate of the University of Pesth, and late Chief Surgeon of the Hungarian Revolutionary army, for more extended labors, Dr. L. J. Czapkay has bent his earnest attention to the cure of chronic and private diseases, in which he has become so great an expert, that he is now regarded as the leader in this branch of his profession throughout the United States, and his portrait and biography are published as matter of interest to their readers in the most exclusive journals. The Doctor's offices are at his Medical and Surgical Institute, on Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, nearly opposite the buildings of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, San Francisco. We ask particular attention of our readers to the sworn certificates of remarkable cures in another column of this paper. Persons not wishing to lose time in corresponding, please enclose $10 in their letters, and they will get immediate attention to their cases. Address, L. J. CZAPKAY, M. D., San Francisco, Cal.

BEAUTY AND SIMPLICITY OF CONSTRUCTION
—AND—
Efficiency in Working.

A GOOD SEWING MACHINE

SHOULD BE WELL MADE, simple in its construction, and easily kept in order; should make a tight LOCK-STITCH, alike on both sides of the material, and should sew any and all materials that can be sewed.

It should be able to use cotton, thread, or silk, directly from the spool, and to sew from coarse to fine, and from thick to thin, with rapidity, and without changing the tension. It should also be able to make the tension greater or less, on both the under and upper threads, and with uniformity; and should have a straight needle; curved ones being liable to break.

The needle should have perpendicular motion—this is absolutely necessary for heavy work.

It should be able to bind with a binder, hem with a hemmer; should stitch, fell, run and gather; and always ready to work.

It should be capable of using the same size thread on both sides of the work, and of using different colored thread or silk above or below, to correspond with any two colors of cloth to be united.

It should be able to make a long or short stitch, and to fasten off the seam, and commence sewing tightly at the first stitch, and to run easily, and make but little noise.

It should have a wheel-feed; no others are in constant contact with the work.

It should not be liable to get out of order; neither should it require a screw-driver or wrench to set the needle.

It should not be liable to oil the operator's dress.

It should not form a ridge on the under side, nor ravel.

A Cure for a Scowl---A Fairy Story for Little Folks.

BY AN OLD-FASHIONED FELLOW.

The Princess Ingraciosa (which name means "Ungracious") was one of the loveliest in the world. "She had," said the poets of the kingdom, "a skin creamy and satin like as a lily, lips like the heart of a rose, a blush like that of a sea shell, eyes like the blue of pansies, and hair like sunbeams."

One wrote verses to the [illegible] of her nose, another praised her eyelashes, but not one of them said a word about the [illegible] scowl in the middle of her forehead. The poet who had dared to mention this only blemish in her beauty would infallibly have gone without his dinner for a year to come.

Mirrors, however will tell the truth; and the Princess was continually sending east, west, north and south, for a cure for a scowl, till one day there came an old woman to the palace gate.

"I want to see the Princess," squeaked she.

"Go away, you old witch," cried the guard.

But the Princess called out of the window, "Let her come in. Who knows but she has something to cure my scowl?"

Then the Lord High Fiddlestick jumped up, and said he, "Your Royal Highness—pray consider, your Royal Highness. Take care to reflect, your Royal Highness. Pray consider that she an old woman, which is a very bad thing, your Royal Highness; and a poor old woman, which is still worse, your Royal Highness."

"Nonsense?" cried the Princess, and turned up her nose. The moment the guard saw her nose turn up, they opened the gates; and the old woman walked into the hall where the Princess lay on a green and gold sofa, kicking over her maids of honor, who knelt before her, whenever they gaped, and trying, with a saucer of chalk and cream, to rub the scowl out of her forehead.

"Have you got anything to cure my scowl?" asked the Princess.

"No," said the old woman; "and there is only one person in the world who has."

"Who is it? Where is it? My Lord High Fiddlestick, order a hundred thousand soldiers to go and get it at once," cried Ingraciosa.

"Your whole army can't get it, Princess," said the old woman. "If you really wish it, you must go yourself; for it is in Fairy-land, and Lilla, Queen of the Fairies, is the only one who can give it you."

"And how can I get to Fairy-land?" asked the Princess.

"Go to the first brook, drop a rose and a diamond in the water, and say:—

> "All kind powers lend your hand
> To help me on to Fairy-land!"

Then you will see a road open plain and broad before you. That is the way to Fairy-Land."

"Good!" said the Princess. "My Lord High Fiddlestick, lock up the old woman. If she speaks the truth she shall be made First Lady in Waiting. If she has lied, she shall lose her head."

But no sooner did the Lord High Fiddlestick lay his hand on the old woman, than she went up the chimney with such a breeze, that she knocked the Lord High Fiddlestick down. At that, the Princess was in such a rage, that she kicked over every one of the maids of honor, and threw her saucer of cream at the Lord High Fiddlestick's head; but as that didn't bring the old woman back, she started off the next morning to find Fairy-land to the joy of the Court, who hoped that she might never come back again.

Arrived at the brook, she dropped the rose and diamond in the water, and said:

> "All kind powers lend your hand
> To help me on to Fairy-land."

And at once, as the old woman had said, stretched away before her a broad road, leading up till it seemed to vanish in the clouds. There were no rocks, no hills, no trees—nothing but the roads and clouds on each side; but the Princess was not afraid, and went bravely up, till she came to a mighty rock of clear sparkling crystal, higher than her palace, smooth as glass, and so large that it filled up all the road. While she stood looking at it in dismay, came out of the top of it an ugly little dwarf, who sang, in a sharp little voice:

> "Ill-nature makes that ugly scowl,
> Pride, and angry passions foul;
> If you this would fain ascend,
> You must your manners gently mend."

Instantly the Princess fainted away. It was the first time she had ever been told the truth in her life, and the shock was too great. When she recovered, she found herself on the green and gold sofa again; and looking in a glass opposite, saw that the scowl, if possible, was worse than ever. As she always did, when angry, she lifted her foot to kick over a maid of honor, when she fancied that she heard the dwarf singing:

> "If you would fain this rock ascend,
> You must your manners gently mend."

So she stopped; and that evening just as she was about to throw a silver goblet at her sister's head, she recollected herself, and only called her a few hard names.

The whole court was in amazement. A whole day had passed, and no one had been kicked or beaten about the head.

Everybody ordered a hundred new handkerchiefs, for they all thought the Princess was about to die; but three months passed, and the Princess, who fancied that the scowl was growing fainter, behaved so well that the Lord High Fiddlestick and the maids of honor almost forgot to dodge when she stirred on the sofa.

At length the Princess started again for Fairydom. She dropped the rose and diamond in the brook, and said over the words the old woman had taught her; again the road opened before her, and she went on till she came before the crystal rock, in which she found steps cut, broad and wide, so that it was easy enough to go up. As she went on the little flowers began to spring up around her feet, and she heard all around her, birds and falling water; but she saw nothing till she came to a rock of diamond, ten times as high as the rock of crystal.

As she stood looking at it, voices began to sing:

> [illegible]

As before, the Princess fainted, and found herself, on recovering, at [illegible] again. A year was [illegible] this time before [illegible] gentle and patient, [illegible] [illegible] hard [illegible] [illegible] that she had [illegible] the very [illegible] pleased [illegible] and cruel things [illegible] [illegible] looked so ugly in the [illegible] almost [illegible] the disagreeable [illegible]. At last she [illegible] travelled the fairy road [illegible] and rocks [illegible] that led up to a throne [illegible] where was a [illegible] throne a fairy queen, and [illegible] who waved a wand, and at [illegible] gay [illegible] little [illegible]:

> [illegible]

The Princess turned quickly round, and saw a fountain whose waters were falling in little slender, silver-like threads. As she gazed, these water threads [illegible] together and formed one smooth, shining mirror, in which she saw herself. The scowl was gone. The Princess screamed with delight.

At once came running the maids of honor, and "Oh, what is it?" and "What is the matter?" cried they.

The Princess told the story. The courtiers looked at each other, and whispered that she had been asleep, and had never left the palace. But be that as it might, the scowl was gone. And from that day the Princess proved so kind and gentle, that her name was changed to Graciosa.

Particular attention paid to the treatment of diseases peculiar to Women and Children.

Address, DR. L. J. CZAPKAY, San Francisco.

> Of all diseases the first great cause,
> Springs from neglect of Nature's laws.

To the Afflicted:

Suffer not when a cure is guaranteed in all stages of secret diseases—Self-Abuse, Nervous Debility, Syphilis in all its stages, Strictures, Gleet, Gravel, Diabetes, diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Mercurial Rheumatism, Scrofula, Pains in the Bones and Ankles, diseases of the Lungs, Throat, Nose and Eyes, Ulcers upon the Body or Limbs, Cancers, Dropsy, Epileptic Fits, St. Vitus Dance—and all diseases arising from a derangement of the sexual organs—such as Nervous Trembling, Loss of Memory, Loss of Power, General Weakness, Dimness of Vision, with peculiar spots appearing before the eyes, Loss of Sight, Wakefulness, Dyspepsia, Liver Disease, Eruptions upon the Face, Pains in the Back and Head, Female Irregularities—and all improper discharges of both sexes. It matters not from what cause the disease originated, however long standing or obstinate the case, recovery is certain and in a shorter time than a permanent cure can be effected by any other treatment. [illegible] the disease has baffled the skill of eminent physicians and resisted all their means of cure. The medicines prescribed are pleasant, without odor, entirely vegetable, causing no sickness and free from mercury or balsam. During fifteen years of practice in Europe, the Atlantic States and California, I have rescued from the jaws of death many thousands, who in the last stages of the above-mentioned diseases had been given up to die by their physicians, which warrants me in promising to the afflicted, who may place themselves under my care, a speedy and permanent cure. Private diseases are the greatest enemies to health, as they are the first cause of consumption, scrofula, and many other diseases, and should be a terror to the human family. A permanent cure is scarcely ever effected, a majority of cases falling into the hands of incompetent persons, who not only fail to cure the disease, but ruin the constitution, filling the system with mercury, which, with the disease, hastens the sufferer into a rapid consumption. But should the disease and the treatment not cause death speedily, and the victim marries, the disease is entailed upon the children, who are born with feeble constitutions, and the current of life corrupted by a virus which betrays itself in scrofula, tetter, ulcers, eruptions and other affections of the skin, eyes, throat and lungs, entailing upon them a brief existence of suffering, and consigning them to an early grave.

Self-abuse is another formidable enemy to health, for nothing else in the dread catalogue of human diseases causes so destructive a drain upon the system, drawing its thousands of victims through a few years of suffering down to an untimely grave. It destroys the nervous system rapidly, wastes away the energies of life, causes mental derangement, prevents the proper development of the system, disqualifies for marriage, society, business, and all earthly happiness, and leaves the sufferer wrecked in body and mind, predisposed to consumption and a train of evils more to be dreaded than death itself. With the fullest confidence I assure the unfortunate victims of self-abuse that a permanent and speedy cure can be effected, and with the abandonment of ruinous practices my patients can be restored to robust, vigorous health.

Irregularities and all diseases of males and females treated on principles established by fifteen years of practice, and sanctioned by thousands of the most remarkable cures.—Medicines with full directions sent to any part of the State, Oregon and Washington Territory by patients communicating their symptoms by letter.

All business correspondence strictly confidential. Address DR. L. J. CZAPKAY, Medical Institute, Sacramento street, below Montgomery, opposite Pacific Mail Steamship Co.'s Office, San Francisco.

Remarkable Instance of Medical Relief

Below we publish the certificates of three of the sufferers from the ranks of disease, who, having recovered their former health, and impelled by gratitude, make known their cases and remedial agent, and their statements are authenticated by a Notary Public. The demand of society imperiously demand their publicity, and we commend their perusal to the attention of all afflicted.

Card.—The undersigned, desirous of acquainting those who may be unfortunate enough to be similarly afflicted, where a speedy and permanent relief of their sufferings may be obtained, feels it his duty to thus publicly express his most sincere gratitude to Dr. L. J. Czapkay, for the permanent recovery of his health. Borne down by the distressing symptoms incident to the vicious practices of uncontrollable passion in youth, depressed in body and mind, unable to perform even the most trifling duty imposed upon the ordinary avocations of life, I sought the advice of many physicians, who at first regarded my disease as of trifling importance, but alas, after a few weeks and in several instances months of their treatment, I found to my unutterable horror that instead of relief my symptoms became more aggravated in their nature, and being told by one that my case being principally confined to the brain, medicine would be of little consequence, I despaired of ever regaining my health, strength and energy; and as a last resort, and with but a faint hope, called upon Dr. Czapkay, who, after examining my case, prescribed a medicine which almost instantly relieved me of the dull pain and dizziness in my head. Encouraged by the result I resolved to place myself immediately under his care, and by a strict obedience to all his directions and advice, my head became clear, and my ideas collected, the constant pain in my back and groins, the weakness of my limbs, the nervous reaction of my whole body on the slightest alarm or excitement, the misanthropy and evil forebodings, the self-distrust and want of confidence in others, the incapability to study, and want of resolution, the frightful excitement at times pleasurable dreams at night followed by involuntary discharges, have all disappeared, and in fact in two months after having consulted the doctor, I felt as if inspired by a new life—that life which but a short time ago I contemplated to end by my own hand. With the view to guard the unfortunate from falling into the snares of incompetent quacks, I deem it my duty to offer this testimony to the merit and skill of Dr. Czapkay, and recommend him to all who may stand in need of medical advice, being assured by my own experience that once under his care a radical and permanent cure will be effected.

DR. L. J. CZAPKAY, San Francisco—Sir: I have used the last of your medicine, and do not think I shall need any more, as I feel very well, except that I have not entirely got my strength yet, but soon will with the appetite I have. It is just three weeks, you may recollect, since I called at your institute with my constitution, as I thought, broken entirely, and never thought you would be able to cure me perfectly, but thought you might be able to do something to ease the pain in my back and head, and strengthen my nerves so that I would not get excited and tremble at everything. Now that you know what I expected, you may judge of my satisfaction of my complete recovery from those symptoms, and the removal of the sores and blotches from my skin, and the ulcers from my throat, and the entire stoppage of those emissions, which you said were principally the cause of my sickness. I can hardly tell you which is the greatest, my joy or my surprise, for except not having fully got my strength, I feel as well as any man can feel.

Enclosed I send you twenty dollars over your charge, and thank you sincerely for my cure. If you think anybody will be benefited, you may put this letter in the newspapers. Believe me gratefully yours, THOMAS HAYDEN.

Thankfulness is the incentive to gratitude.

CERTIFICATE.—Prompted by an honest desire of my heart, I wish to lay before the public a case which deserves a commendation not only as an act of scientific skill, but that of humanity also. About two years ago I suddenly, and from causes unknown to me, was seized with a fit of epilepsy, which, owing to my inability to meet the expenses consequent upon a thorough medical treatment and the discouragement which I met with in attempting it, soon became such, I was given out to be a case to defy the skill of any physician. I was frequently, while in pursuit of my calling, thrown down to the ground without the slightest warning, and although I naturally felt the necessity, I yet despised the hint of seeking [illegible] upon those who would render assistance or [illegible] longer as enemies who sought to prolong the existence of my miseries. While in this state, and having given up to my affliction, tasted the sweets of my [illegible] was induced to attempt seeking of a physician, and [illegible] recollection, called upon Dr. L. J. Czapkay. I told him of my circumstances, of which however I [illegible] regardless the blessing of God I was once more restored to perfect health. Unable to reward him [illegible] which I enjoy at present and [illegible] I consider it due to myself and all afflicted to make the case public, in order that [illegible] and a physician [illegible].
